

ambioSonics

How does this work?

Each musician has its own self-contained equipment. Each of us plays and controls his instruments independently from the others. Each musician mixes his sounds in his mixer into a stereomix. Those individual mixes from all musicians are summed up in a central mixing unit. A second central unit provides a shared tempo, which will be taken over from all the devices. We record everything and publish it afterwards in the internet.

www.ambiosonics.de